THE GOLDFIELD AFFAIR.

The action of President Roosevelt in sending federal troops to Goldfield is, in a way, unprecedented. There has so far been no violence to warrant such action and even had there been unlawful acts committed, no request for assistance in upholding the law had been made by the sheriff. The mere assumption on the part of the Mine Owners' association that the sheriff was friendly toward the miners, would be no valid excuse for the importation of troops.

There has been more or less trouble at Goldfield between the miners and their employers and the latter have announced publicly that they intended making an "open" camp of Goldfield. They are conducting private enterprises and if they desire to establish an open camp, they certainly have the right to do so if they can, but to call in United States troops to assist them in so doing is outrageous. From the press dispatches, it is apparent to any unbiased mind that the flimsiest kind of pretext, if not actual misrepresentation, was used by Governor Sparks, on which to base his appeal for federal troops and the appeal itself, taken in conjunction with the contradictory messages from Goldfield, show him to be either a weakling or one directly influenced by the Goldfield Mine Owners' association. The effect of the president's action in so readily complying with the request of Nevada's governor, will be far reaching in the coming presidential campaign.

A Marion, Ind., man who never had a physician dropped dead the other day. There seems to be no escape for any of us.

Chicago now has a young and handsome woman on the police force. It will undoubtedly tickle some men to be pinched by her.

After breaking numerous records, it would be the irony of fate if the Lusitania and the Mauretania wind up by breaking their own records.

An additional sign of a mild winter may be found hereabouts in the fact that a good many women are still wearing their peek-a-boos.

The bears that were killed this year will be talked about long after the world has forgotten the guides who were shot by mistake.

Since Carrie Nation has announced that she will kiss no man who uses tobacco, a goodly proportion of the male population is resting easier.

A Shamokin, Pa., laborer killed a wildcat with his dinner pail the other day. The full dinner pail seems bound to win victories in every walk of life.

A Wall street magnate is quoted as saying that the first million is the hardest to make. Perhaps it would not be so hard if easy marks were more plentiful.

While serving a five-year term an Ohio convict made $20,000 in the penitentiary. That ought to convince the man that he is able to make an honest living.

General Booth says he expects a newspaper man to be the first to greet him in heaven, but he probably doesn't expect it to be the one who writes the annual sea serpent stories.

"Kid" Wedge, a former prize fighter, has been appointed pastor of a church in Barnston, Neb. His congregation can now expect to get it right from the shoulder.

A North Carolina man named Julian C. Carr is said to be carrying $600,000 of life insurance. That comes pretty near being a Carr load coming to some body by slow freight.

Chicago is now complaining because her quart milk bottles are not full quart.

size. One can imagine what a bowl will hold if her bottles are ever found to be a few drops shy.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, when a woman says she wants a new hat her husband is going to pay for one without going to the trouble of flipping a coin to see about it.

Editors who are commenting on "the slowing up of the Taft boom" should remember that large bodies have a habit of keeping within the speed limit—that is, all but large touring cars.

One Indian holding down an allotment in Oklahoma is named John Hot Air. The news from that state leads us to suspect that he has numerous relatives in the publicity department.

Speaking of Weston's walk to Chicago, an exchange says it is not clear what good will come of it. For one thing, probably a good many people will be thankful that they are still able to pay car fare.

"The American who can walk seven miles is a rare specimen," says the New York Mail. If more men would accompany their wives on shopping expeditions, this state of affairs would not exist.

FOUR YEARS WITH ESKIMO

DRESDEN TEACHERS PLAN FOR EXPLORING BAFFIN LAND.

Will Renounce All Comforts of Civilization, Going Without Other Companion Among the Savages.

DRESDEN, December 7.—The project of Bernhard Hantzsch, a Dresden school teacher, who, from the beginning of 1909 until the end of 1912, intends to pass the time in the exploration of Baffin Land, living as an Eskimo among the Eskimo without any European companion, is arousing interest in scientific circles.

Hantzsch, during his voluntary exile, will utterly renounce all the comforts and accessories of civilization, the only thing to remind him of this being a specially constructed boat, which he will take for use around the southern coasts. Hantzsch proposes, on his arrival in Baffin Land, to attach himself to a migratory tribe, learning the language and adopting the habits of the natives.

In the summer he will live under skin tents and in the winter in snow houses, and will wander with the tribe throughout the length and breadth of the land. In this way he will be enabled to acquire a thorough acquaintance with the customs of the Eskimo, and, at the same time, he hopes to secure valuable data relating to the natural history of the country.

The explorer expects to be able to make his way along the western coast northward by 1912 and there he hopes to fall in with a whaler to which he can return to Europe.

The expenses of the expedition will be moderate, and part of these he himself will supply, while the remainder will be provided by several Dresden scientific bodies.

Hantzsch has had some experience in the arctic regions, having passed five months in Iceland, in 1903, studying bird life. Again, in 1906, he led an ornithological expedition into the interior of Labrador.

RICH SELLING DIAMONDS

Maiden Lane Dealers Take Back $1,000,000 Worth of Stones.

NEW YORK, December 7.—Many persons have been selling back to Maiden Lane dealers diamonds and other precious stones bought before the financial troubles began. It is said that one wholesale house has, within a month, bought more than $1,000,000 worth of diamonds, necklaces, brooches, rings and other ornaments which wealthy people have surrendered in order to obtain cash.

"Diamonds have again proved to be the kind of property most easily converted into cash," said an importer. "The people with diamonds have been luckier than some who had their money in banks because, with the diamonds, cash has always been obtainable."

The resale of articles from family jewelry chests is putting back in the market some of the finest specimens of stones, and is relieving, to some extent, one trouble of the dealers who for several years have been worried by the difficulty of getting sufficient supplies of high-grade stones.

THE SOCIAL SIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund T. Sathell and Mrs. Cox entertained a number of their friends last evening at their handsome new home on 10th Hill. The principal pastime of the evening was whist, at which several hours were delightfully spent and at the conclusion of which tempting refreshments were served. There was a contest for both prizes for the most proficient at cards, the ladies' prize being won by Mrs. F. E. Wales, who tied with Mrs. Geo. K. French and the gentleman's trophy going to Mr. Barrett who out with Mr. Wales.

The following included the guests who enjoyed the hospitality of the host and hostesses: Judge and Mrs. F. S. Nave, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. K. French, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Wales, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Sultan, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rawlins, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Naquin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Weinberger, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wales, Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Sturgeon, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Brown, Mrs. Sparr of San Francisco, Miss Short and Messrs. F. A. Woodward, Howard T. Wayne and Walter Cox.

One of the most unique and successful social functions of the season was a Japanese tea given by Mrs. A. R. Edwards, 351 East Cedar street, Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 o'clock.

The invited guests were: Mesdames Sollenberger, Hegardt, Sultan, Shanley, Hurd, Caler, Butz, J. G. Naquin, C. P. Jacobs, M. L. Naquin, Roland Jacobs, Elliot, Patton, Barrett, Snell, Merritt, Little, F. E. Wales, Miles, Towle, Nave, Keegan, Henry, Moreland, Sturgeon, Kinsey, Hansen, J. L. Wales, Brown, Rawlins, Weinberger, Lantin, Flak, Higdon, Smalley, Spates, Kennedy, Alsdorf, Barker, Kellner, Clark, McCarthy, Green, Coombs, Shute, Kingdon, Solomon and Toombs.

After engaging in several games of whist the guests were ushered to the sumptuous yet dainty tea-tables, where the menu consisted of Japanese delicacies. There was a profusion of Japanese decorations throughout the rooms. After partaking of the refreshments the company was favored by three vocal selections rendered by Mrs. Butz in a most pleasing manner.

The hour was somewhat late when the guests dispersed, leaving Mrs. Edwards with many assurances of an afternoon most enjoyably spent.

The Graves of Our Presidents.

The recent act of the federal government in assuming the custody of the grave of Andrew Johnson in Greeneville, Tenn., is of interest as marking the purpose of the government to see that the graves of our presidents receive appropriate care. These in many instances are already well provided for, but there have been a few exceptions, and that of Andrew Jackson was perhaps the most conspicuous. The improvements now being undertaken in the Tennessee cemetery where the successor of Abraham Lincoln is buried were authorized by the last congress, which appropriated $32,000 for the object.

It is expected that the new congress will be asked to appropriate money for a monument to John Tyler in Hollywood cemetery, Richmond, his grave being marked only by a wooden slab at the present time. It has also been suggested that the government assume the care of the tomb of Andrew Jackson at the Hermitage, near Nashville. As the years pass there is increasing interest in the resting places of our former chief magistrates, and it is said that one North Carolina man has visited every president's grave.—Springfield Union.
